

This is a detailed topographic map of an urban area, specifically focusing on Sikorski Street. The map features several building footprints, some labeled with numbers like 187, 196, 197, and 198. Contour lines are drawn across the map, indicating elevation changes. A prominent feature is a thick black line that follows the edge of a slope, representing a retaining wall. An arrow points to a specific section of this wall, indicating the location of damage. The map also shows various other features such as roads, utility lines, and property boundaries. The overall layout suggests a technical drawing used for urban planning or engineering purposes.
